Palladia St Mary's Court, Amersham

Set in the charming town of Amersham, with its pretty streets of half-timbered houses, period cottages and antique shops, St Mary's Court feels a million miles from central London. Yet its Palladia offices and suites are just as well equipped and expertly serviced as those you'll find in the capital.

St Mary's Court is actually two contemporary buildings, which were purpose-built and have been finished to the highest possible standards.

Rooms here are bright and spacious, with plenty of natural light, and there's a wide choice to suit all companies, whatever size or requirements.

As a Palladia serviced office, St Mary's Court offers first class business support in a great location.

Following the vacation of a large office suite New Business Interiors were involved with providing a useable office space for potential new clients.

New Business Interiors was involved from the initial client brief through to completion. The project needed to be agreed and completed within a restricted time-frame due to specialist products and the new lease date start.

Due to the nature of Executive Offices Group projects, New Business Interiors always provide a detailed schedule of works and carry out regular site surveys in order to ensure that all aspects of the contract come together to our highest quality. This project was not without delivery and manufacturer issues however communication with the client was constant and New Business Interiors flexibility and planning ensured a quality finish completed on time and on budget resulting in extremely high customer satisfaction.

Client Comment:

"We have found New Business Interiors to be outstanding contractors. Brian takes the time to listen to our requirements and understands that we act on behalf of our client, and often need the build to be done yesterday. The work has been carried out to the correct time line, and the team on site have been flexible, clean and polite."
