The biggest challenge we faced throughout the project was the lengthy approval process. Following the creation of the logo, brand and 3D images of the proposed layout and colour schemes we received sign off from our client. The next stage was to pitch our concept to Multiplex, the landlords of The Eden Complex to ensure that our designs met and complied with the detailed shop fitting guide, specified by the landlords. This process took several months.

Once on site the construction process proceeded efficiently despite working under strict Health & Safety regulations and difficult working hours due to restricted access to the site which housed a fully operational bus station with members of the public using the immediate facilities.

Throughout the project we held regular site meetings with the client, Multiplex and Cyril Sweett, The Project Management Team for Multiplex to ensure that timescales were kept whilst maintaining a high quality of work and product.

The project was successfully completed and signed off by all parties involved.

Mr Brian Lewis is now looking to roll-out his brand by purchasing further units for development with New Business Interiors.

Client comment

New Business Interiors were involved in every stage of this project from the design concept through to the detailed execution of the vision and I can tell you the shop looks absolutely fantastic!! The task was enormous and I benefited from involving them from the very start when the shop unit was only on paper and months later was handed over to us as a basic shell which then had to be transformed into the first flag ship store to be opened in the £100m+ Eden development in High Wycombe
