Shure Distribution UK

In early 2003, Shure Distribution UK, formerly known as HW International, was acquired by one of the world's leading microphone and audio electronics manufacturers, Shure Incorporated. Based in North London, Shure Distribution UK has been at the leading edge of import and distribution, for over 36 years and represents some of the best products available in the field of pro audio. The company occupies premises perfectly suited to product distribution, with ample warehousing and office space, as well as car parking facilities for both staff and visitors.

Following the initial brief from the client New Business Interiors worked with the information provided and produced CAD design layouts, sample products and full specification. We worked closely with our distributors to provide the perfect solution for Shure Distributions needs.

Following award of the contract we prepared a detailed programme of works in order to complete the project over an agreed four week period. Weekly site meetings between New Business Interiors and Shure Distribution ensured that the quality of work we achieved was to the highest standard and that timescales were kept.

The project was handed over successfully within the agreed timescale and budget. We have since taken further orders for blinds and additional furniture and look forward to maintaining a good working relationship with Shure Distribution UK.
